Is covid over?

Claim by The Sun:
The World Health Organisation has declared the Covid-19 pandemic over.

Full Fact rating:
It has not. The pandemic has been downgraded from the highest alert level and is no longer considered a public health emergency of international concern. But the WHO says the pandemic is ongoing and remains a global health risk.

Claim by Stephen Barclay:
The World Health Organisation (WHO) has announced that the Covid-19 pandemic is officially over.

Full Fact rating:
This is not correct. The WHO has downgraded the Covid-19 pandemic from the highest alert level, so it is no longer considered a public health emergency of international concern. But the WHO says the pandemic is ongoing and Covid-19 remains a global health risk.

4. Filtering & Sorting Results

- Use filters to refine searches by date, source, or claim rating.
- Sort results by relevance or date for easier navigation.

5. Submitting a Fact-Check Request

- If you encounter misinformation, contact a verified fact-checking organization.
- Google does not perform fact-checks but aggregates results from trusted sources.

6. Verifying the Credibility of Sources

- Look for fact-checks from recognized organizations like Reuters, AP, Snopes, and PolitiFact.
- Cross-check claims by searching on multiple platforms.

7. Using Fact Checker for Research & Reporting

- Journalists, researchers, and educators can cite fact-checks for credible information.
- Use the Google Fact Check Explorer API for automated searches (developer access required).

8. Troubleshooting Common Issues

- No results found? Try different keywords or check spelling.
- Incorrect information? Verify with multiple sources before reporting misinformation.
- Slow loading? Check internet connectivity or clear browser cache.

9. Staying Updated with New Features

- Follow Google's official blog for updates on the Fact Check Explorer.
- Subscribe to fact-checking organizations for the latest verified news.

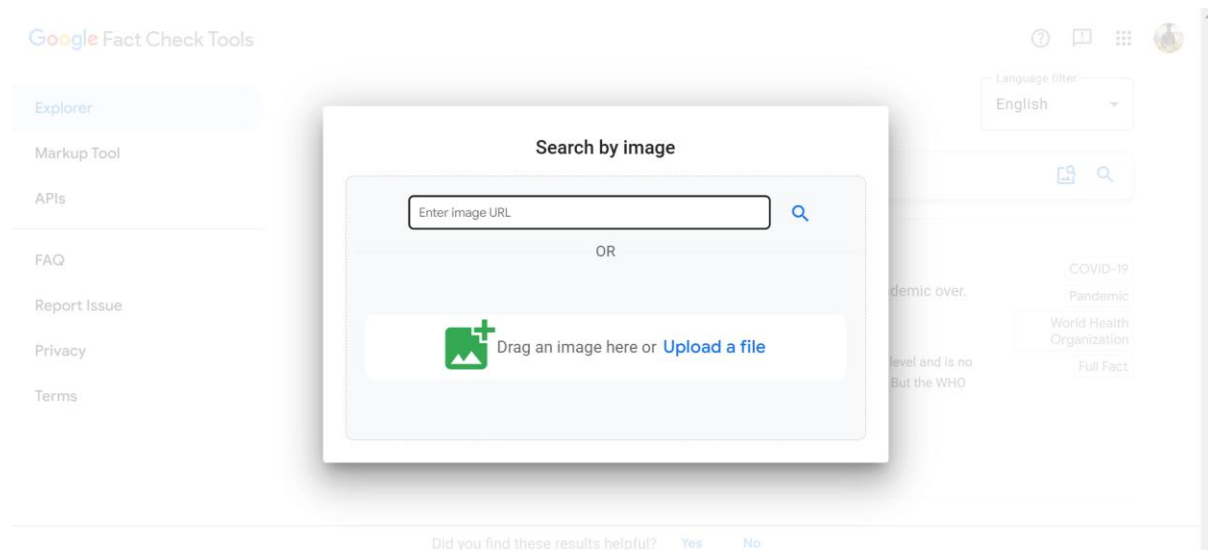

10. Image verification

Image can be verified using Google Fact checker

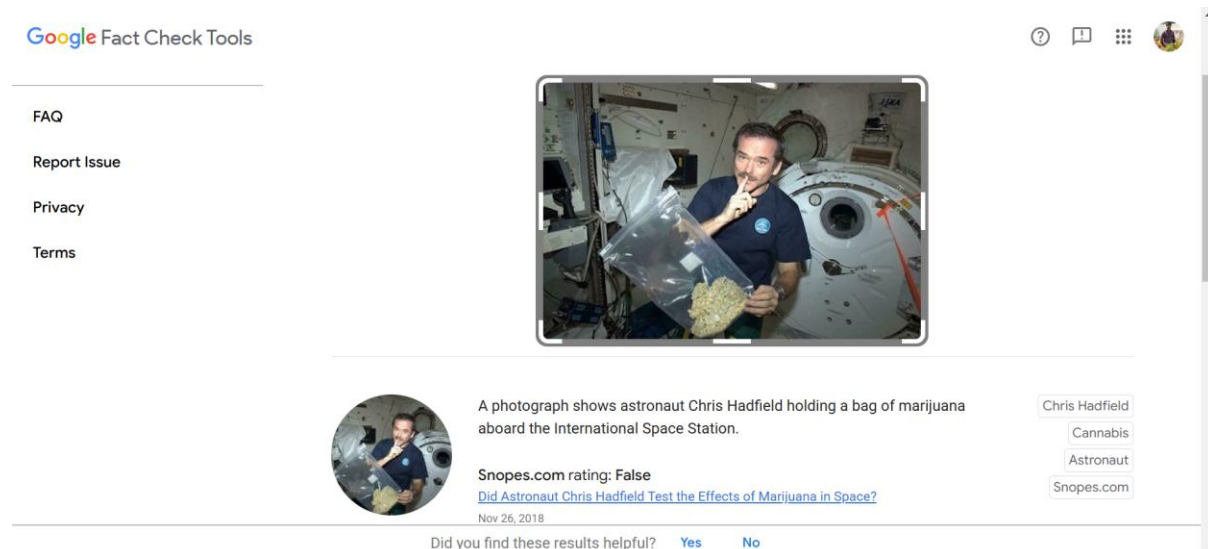

The screenshot shows the Google Fact Check Tools interface. On the left is a sidebar with links: Explorer (highlighted), Markup Tool, APIs, FAQ, Report Issue, Privacy, and Terms. The main area has a search bar with the text "Search fact checks about a topic or person" and a "Search by image" button. Above the search bar is a "Language filter" dropdown set to "English" and a "More results in other languages" button. Below the search bar, under the heading "Recent fact checks", there is a result for a viral social media post claim. The claim text is: "Claim by Viral social media post: A viral screenshot identifies a Lucknow politician named Manoj K Srivastava as the father of Advik Srivastava, the 21-year-old student arrested in connection with the KIIT Nepali student suicide case." To the right of the claim text are tags: "Suicide", "KIIT Group of Institutions", "KIIT", and "Newschecker". Below the claim text, it says "Newschecker rating: False" and provides a link: "Fact Check: KIIT Nepal Student Suicide: Viral Screenshot Misidentifies Lucknow Politician As Father Of Accused". A small circular image of a group of people is shown to the left of the claim text.

The image shows Canadian astronaut Chris Hadfield aboard the International Space Station (ISS). Hadfield is holding a bag of what appears to be shredded wheat, with his finger to his lips in a "shush" gesture. This photo likely gained popularity due to its humorous and slightly mischievous nature, playing on the common misconception of astronauts eating bland, freeze-dried food in space.

Chris Hadfield was the first Canadian to walk in space and the first Canadian commander of the ISS. He is also known for his active use of social media while on the ISS, sharing photos, videos, and insights into life in space, which made him very popular with people on Earth.
